Information appeared on the Ex***t hacker forum that a user under the nickname “Adrastea” announced that MBDA had been hacked, the hackers managed to download about 60 GB. According to the attackers, the downloaded data contains classified information about employees of companies involved in the development of closed military projects:

“Hello! We are Adrastea – a group of independent experts and researchers in the field of cybersecurity. We have discovered critical vulnerabilities in the network infrastructure and gained access to company files and confidential data.

Currently, the amount of downloaded data is about 60 GB. The uploaded data contains classified information about employees of companies that took part in the development of closed military projects MBDA (PLANCTON, CRONOS, CA SIRIUS, EMADS, MCDS, B1NT, etc.) and about commercial activities in the interests of the Ministry of Defense of the European Union (design documentation for air defense, missile coastal protection systems and systems, drawings, presentations, video and photo (3D) materials, contract agreements and correspondence with other companies Rampini Carlo, Netcomgroup, Rafael, Thales, ST Electronics, etc.) “

As a proof, the hackers posted screenshots of drawings, internal photos and a link to the “demo”. The hackers decided to discuss the price for the leak with a potential buyer individually.

Whether the leak is real is unknown.
