Our last article left you on a cliff edge. What did we find on the dark web which proved so illuminating?

Well, it would seem things at Wuhan Xiaoruizhi are not all well.

In a post which was later redacted and then disappeared with the downfall of breachforums, we found a post from someone who claimed to be a representative of a disaffected hacker selling the identities of 100 of their colleagues from an 'elite hacking team' in Wuhan.

The poster goes on to claim that Wuhan Xiaoruzhi was a cover company for MSS hacking activity in Wuhan. The company had a few teams working for the MSS, but in 2020, teams started working under new companies.

Sorry for late reply to private messages and email, . . . Many messages. Main question is about authenticity of data and where it come from. Data is from person who worked with the elite Wuhan hacking team, but very angry with boss. Right now only have Wuhan data because person was from that team, but maybe in future can get access to other cities. For authenticity, I say one of the main companies that hired hackers for MSS in Wuhan was Wuhan Xiaoruzhi Technology Company (武汉晓睿智科技有限责任公司). From internet you research them and see what said they did, but also the types of people they hired. The company had few teams working for MSS, but in 2020 teams started working under new companies, but same job, same place. The list of identities for sale will include their names, ID numbers, contact info, photos, and also which companies they work for and when.

These are some astonishing claims, but at team Intrusion Truth we are nothing if not diligent and wanted to get to the bottom of this ourselves. Could we also link Wuhan Xiaoruizhi to the MSS? Could we link it to an APT?

One thing was for sure, Wuhan Xiaoruizhi deserved more of our attention. We searched far and wide for months to gather more information on who works or has worked there. Inspired by our success with Xiong Wang's insurance record, we decided to widen the net. After months of effort, we found the gem we had been waiting for: the social insurance records for Wuhan Xiaoruizhi.

To spare the reader endless documents we have collated as many of the names we can find who have worked at Wuhan Xiaoruizhi as we can:

Xiong Wang insurance record

You might recognize some of the names on the larger list: 黄振 AKA Huang Zhen, 黄震 AKA Huang Zhen, and 李义龙 Li Yilong were also satisfied customers from Kerui Cracking Academy from Article 2. Don't you just love it when things come full circle? Could it be that the ‘undisclosed private company working supporting the government’ Li Yilong claimed to work at is none other than Wuhan Xiaoruizhi itself? Could Kerui be a pipeline into Xiaoruizhi?

Beyond getting reacquainted with our old friends above, this list of employees provided a number of interesting leads. But one of the names cracked our case wide open. Meet Cheng Feng.
